XS Asset RecoverySM Recovers Capital from IT Assets

ATLANTA, GA, January 14, 2008 – XS International, Inc. (XSi) leverages over 18 years of specializing in the IT aftermarket to obtain the highest possible value of IT assets through its XS Asset RecoverySM program.

Through a disciplined, specialized and proven asset recovery methodology, XSi maximizes the residual value received from IT assets. XSi remarkets IT equipment to an extensive database of end-users, segmented by manufacturer, system type and industry, commanding a “refurbished retail” price instead of delivering a “used wholesale” value. XSi’s proven methodology has maximized the recovered capital for companies like Disney, Lego, AT&T, Harris Corporation, ILM, Savvis, Savannah College of Art and Design and Circuit City, among others. The XSi remarketing sales team has sales certification in IBM, HP, Sun and Cisco equipment.

XSi is committed to protecting the environment. Adhering to a strict “No Landfill” policy, XSi also does not export any eWaste. Currently undergoing certification for ISO 14001:2004, XSi also supports the efforts of Basel, The WEEE Directive and others.
